

Application Customization

At Inersia, we offer a range of custom application development software services: Workflow Automation Software Development With workflow management software, you can automate your business processes and workflows to increase your productivity, speed and efficiency. Inersia can web enable your business process so you can ensure a seamless flow of data and information across all the users of your system. Electronic Data Interchange / Document Transaction Development Online Auction Online Auctions are an important element of a global supply management strategy combining technology with knowledge of supply markets and practical experience of purchasing best practice. Savings and other benefits identified through Online Auctions can be realized on a tactical day-to-day basis through e-Procurement. They have become a proven and cost-effective method for negotiation between buyers and suppliers. Inersia will guide you to get most benefits and use of online auctions (often also known as e-Auctions) within your enterprise and sets online auctions in the wider context of global supply management. Healthcare Management Software Services Our healthcare management software will increase your bottom line by as much as 32%. Our health care and medical software will review claim history files and system databases to identify inappropriate adjustments, write-offs, underpayments and missed revenue opportunities. Recruitment Website Application Development At Inersia, we have proven expertise in recruitment website development and recruiting software. We have developed recruitment management solutions that have an exhaustive list of features for different user profiles.